A Visit to Cheung Chau Island

Dear Sam,

How are you? It is glad to read your email. Cheung Chau Island is a fascinating place in the southwest of Hong Kong. Now, let me tell you what you can do there.

First, I want to tell you the famous scenic spot, Cheung Po Tsai Cave. This cave is named after a pirate. You can explore the cave and find the treasure.

Next, I will introduce the second interesting scenic spot, Pak Tai Temple. The famous Bun Festival takes place outside of Pak Tai Temple! You can see a lot of cultural relics inside, such as the gold wood carvings of the Qing Dynasty, the big iron sword that is said to be casted in the Song Dynasty, and so on.

The third scenic spot I want to introduce is North Lookout Pavilion. You need to climb the mountain to get there. After getting to the top, you can enjoy seeing the sunrise and sunset.

Finally, I want to tell you what you must eat there. You must try Cheung Chau specialties, such as fish balls, mango mochi, iced melon.

I hope the tips mentioned are helpful to you. I look forward to seeing you in Cheung Chau.

Best regards,

Chris

The End
